

Ex-Treasury Official Dies During Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Randolph E. Paul, a high-ranking Treasury official under Franklin D. Roosevelt, collapsed and died today at a Capitol hearing.

Dr. James L. Keating told hill physician pronounced Paul dead 20 minutes after he slumped forward against a table in the hearing room.

Dr. Keating said that on the basis of past history, he was probably "a victim of a coronary attack."

Paul's wife was with him in the hearing room. She rushed to his side when he collapsed and began ministering to him.

The 65-year-old Paul slumped before him, while he was being questioned by Rep. Millard (D-Ark.), a member of the Senate House Committee on the Economic Report.

Paul, former general counsel of the Treasury, had finished reading a 31-page prepared statement which served as a kind of rebuttal to testimony given the committee last week by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Mills asked a question and Paul replied: "Yes, I see that implication." At that point, he slumped forward.

Acting Chairman Bolling (D-Ark.) cleared the committee room and summoned Dr. Keating.

Stevenson Starts Digging for Votes

By BILL BECKER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, another year older and deeper in politics than ever, goes digging in earnest today for important southern California votes.

Stevenson, who celebrated his 50th birthday in his old home town yesterday, scheduled eight appearances, visits and receptions in the Los Angeles area.

And they include a variety of settings—from a public picnic in the industrial section to eat with Democratic women at the Beverly Hilton.

The candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination intends to follow up this routine with six more meetings and public appearances tomorrow while working his way down the coast to San Diego, 125 miles southeast.

Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver canceled a concurrent swing through much of the same territory to get back to the Senate fight over the natural gas bill.

Both Stevenson and Kefauver spoke Saturday before the California Democratic Council at Fresno, bidding for the support of the powerful council in the June 5 state primary. California's 68 national convention votes make the primary a key contest.

115 Heifers Vaccinated for Bangs

Since December 31 in Hempstead County 115 farms have been visited by Vaccinator Joe Hamilton in giving herd replacement heifers the best protection possible from Bangs Disease. Fifteen heifer owners secured the vaccination service for the first time states County Agent Oliver L. Adams.

Sufficient requests are now in the Extension Service Office to require the services of Mr. Hamilton through February 21. Any owners of heifer calves 2 to 8 months of age may have them vaccinated for Bangs Disease free of charge by making the request at the county agent's office.

Vaccinator Hamilton works in Lafayette, Miller and Nevada Counties on a rotation basis with Hempstead. He is expected back in Hempstead in May so it is necessary to vaccinate all calves that are five months of age now to prevent their getting over age. Contact your county agent for other information.

Ronald Cummings, 20, Unexpectedly Dies at Home

Ronald Cummings, aged 20, a resident of Emmet, died unexpectedly at his home Sunday.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cummings, and a brother, Jake Cummings, of Emmet.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. Monday at Emmet Baptist Church by the Rev. Huggle Peterson. Burial, in charge of Herndon Cornelius, will be in Snell Cemetery of Emmet.

Situation Tense as Algeria Gets New Premier

By GODFREY ANDERSON

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Premier Guy Mollet landed here today to confront a metropolis massed in ugly opposition to his policies for settling the Algerian nationalist rebellion.

Special police lined the Rue Michelet, which runs from downtown Algiers toward the governor general's official residence. Other police lined the Rue d'Isly, main shopping street leading to the war memorial.

Angry French settlers who opposed any concessions to the nationalists threatened bloodshed if Brig. Gen. Georges Catroux here as resident Cabinet minister. Catroux is known to favor more rights for the North African territory's native Moslems.

Many European stores closed and worried parents kept their children from school.

Although no personal attacks on Mollet were expected, some 3,000 Foreign Legionnaires and 2,000 riot police with armored vehicles encircled the tense city. Strong military guards were planned for Mollet.

Tension increased over the weekend as French war veterans led European crowds through the streets of Algiers and other major cities, demonstrating against any softening toward the nationalist terrorists.

The rebels, who have kept 200,000 French troops tied up, were expected to continue their pressure during Mollet's visit to underscore their autonomy demands. Mollet has promised quick elections to pick Algerian leaders to negotiate with France on a measure of self-rule.

Before taking off from Paris to tackle the main problem facing his six-day-old government, Mollet said he would stay in Algeria "three weeks if necessary" to quiet the 15-month Moslem rebellion.

"I will do my best to avoid all bloodshed," he said.

Most of the eight million Algerian Moslems are clamoring for independence. But the million Europeans, mostly French, want to retain Algeria under French rule.

Many Algerian French view the 79-year-old Catroux as a "liquidator" of France's former Empire. He is held at least partly responsible for successive French loss of Syria and Indochina. He is also blamed for playing a major role in bringing exiled Sultan Mohammed VI, Youssef back to Morocco.

Present plans call for Catroux to arrive here Friday. Mollet will spend the intervening days trying to keep things quiet before seeing him officially installed.

'Aida,' Grand Opera's Best Story, at Saenger in Color This Tuesday & Wednesday

By Alex H. Washburn

I know this is going to be a great shock to a generation of TV-viewers and jive-listeners but the real McCoy in grand opera is going to unroll on the Saenger theater screen this Tuesday and Wednesday — "Aida," no less.

And, to double the voltage of the shock, I'll report that it's all in Italian. I just threw that in for free — if any grand opera ever was sung in English I don't know it.

But now that we've carefully measured the dimensions of this gigantic road-block to an evening of popular entertainment I've got to report something this non-operatic person discovered in his later years: Most of the grand operas have a good story — and the story of "Aida" is the best.

It's about Egypt, not only the story itself but also the story of how the opera came to be written. The Suez Canal was opened in 1869 and the Khedive of Egypt, wanting to celebrate the new importance of the city of Cairo, sent for the great Italian composer Giuseppe Verdi and asked him to do an opera on the Land of the Nile. At first Verdi begged off, but then a French archaeologist dug up the authentic story of the Egyptian girl Aida and sent the script to Verdi — and a world-famous opera resulted.

This is that opera's story in part: A young Egyptian army officer, Radames, is in love with an Egyptian princess' beautiful slave, Aida, who, unknown to her captors, is the daughter of a neighboring king. War breaks out and the neighbor invades Egypt. The officer

Radames is given the job of saving Egypt, smashes the enemy and takes Aida's father prisoner. At this point the Egyptian princess and the crown spies move into the plot — and there is enough action to keep you interested regardless how low your I. Q. on grand opera.

This is an authentic opera, done in blazing color, with handsome men and beautiful women in the pictorial roles, but with the dubbed-in voices of the great stars of the La Scala and Rome opera houses. This point should be emphasized, because merely photographing a stage opera would hardly be successful.

The production is presented by S. Huron, who has handled America opera tours for a generation. "Aida's" appearance here is made possible by the co-operation of Mrs. B. C. Hyatt's high school Choral Group who helped underwrite the Saenger venture with advance ticket sales for the A. I. Films series this winter. The previous production shown here featured Marlon Brando in "Julius Caesar."

The top women stars of "Aida" are Sophia Loren, Italy's reigning stage beauty, as Aida; and Lois Maxwell, Canadian beauty, as the princess Amneris. But their singing voices on the screen are the voices of the original opera stars.

The dubbing-in process — one person's photograph and another person's voice — is a technique the motion picture world knows to perfection. You have seen it many times, notably when a younger actor played the lead in "The Jolson Story" — but it was Al Jolson himself who sang the songs.

Union to Discuss U. S. Proposal

By BEN DEFOREST

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leaders of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers gathered today to decide whether to accept a government proposal designed to pave the way for settlement of the 113-day old Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike.

The proposal calls for both sides to temporarily set aside a dispute over whether the company has the right to make efficiency studies of certain workers' jobs. Negotiations on other issues would continue.

Joseph Bedialin and Concilia-Federal Mediator and Conciliator service, submitted the plan and Westinghouse accepted yesterday.

Some 44,000 IUE members are on strike at 30 Westinghouse plants.

Impounding Stock on Roads Ruled Legal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today ruled constitutional a 1955 act which directs state and county police officers to impound livestock found running at large.

Dan Lee Staples, a Union County cattleman, challenged the act on grounds that it (1) purported to amend Initiated Act, No. 1 of 1950 which made it a misdemeanor for owners to permit livestock to roam on the state's highways, and (2) would force persons to be witnesses against themselves in violation of the constitution.

Justices by Associate Justice Minor W. Millwee, the Supreme Court said that the 1955 law—Act 145—did not amend Initiated Act, No. 1 but was supplemental to the earlier act.

If Act 145 had amended the initiated act—which the court said would have meant that some particular provision had been added or taken away—it would have had to get a two-thirds vote in both houses of the Legislature. The vote by which the act was adopted did not reach two-thirds.

The Supreme Court said Initiated Act No. 1 and Act 145 could be effective without reference to each other and that, therefore, no amendment was involved.

The court also disagreed with Staples that Act 145 forced an owner of livestock to be a witness against himself.

"While the act permits an owner to reclaim his impounded stock, it does not compel him to do so, nor does it necessarily follow that he thereby admits that he has violated Initiated Act No. 1 of 1950," Justice Millwee wrote.

"Even though an owner reclaims his stock, or is still free to make any defense or contention he may have, or desire, with regard to whether he allowed the stock to run at large."

Staples originally filed suit in Union Chancery Court against Sheriff O. E. Bishop and other local officers. The suit was refiled in Pulaski Chancery Court and State Police Director Herman E. Lindsey was added as a defendant. Pulaski Chancery Court said the law was valid and today's Supreme Court opinion affirmed that view.

Heroic Driver Credited With Saving 15

By W. J. MCGLAS ON

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Feb. 6 (UP) — A heroic bus driver lay halfblinded in a hospital bed today the victor in an eight-hour battle with a killer blizzard to rescue fifteen passengers trapped in a snow-bound bus.

John Heaton, the 38-year-old bus driver, was never seen again by the passengers he left in his snow-regulated Trailways bus late Saturday to go in search of help.

Heaton walked through a blizzard for eight hours until early Sunday when he finally stumbled blindly into a gas station near Glenrio 11 miles from the stalled bus.

State police following snow plows, rescued the passengers a short time later. They were driven in another bus to Albuquerque, N. M., to continue their separate ways without getting a chance to personally thank the man who saved their lives.

Heaton's bus, bound from Amarillo, Tex., stalled in a snow drift at 9 a. m. Saturday. The passengers were rescued 20 hours later.

Heaton, with his temporarily snow-blinded eyes swathed in bandages related from his hospital bed his struggle with the elements through swollen lips.

He wore only low-cut shoes, woolen trousers and his regulation driver's jacket when he set off from the bus to seek aid.

"I lost all idea of time," Heaton said. "I just knew I'd been walking a long time. My legs were numb and I knew I was mighty cold."

Feuds Flare in Meet of Union Leaders

By NORMAN WALKER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A number of quarrels blossomed out today among AFL-CIO leaders gathered for a seashore winter meeting.

Walter Reuther, red-haired ex-chief of the CIO, is in the middle of one of the biggest arguments. It involves the big United Auto Workers and the building trades, backbone of the former AFL.

The basic dispute is a relatively small one but points up still-existing differences between former AFL and CIO unions over craft or industrial organizing.

A Packard-Studebaker Corp. plant in Detroit is shifting machinery to handle a jet airplane parts contract for the government on a time deadline.

Some already-hired workers, members of Reuther's UAW, were available but not in sufficient number to do the job.

A outside contractor was hired and he brought in members of former AFL building trades unions as workers. The building trades insisted on doing the entire job or none of it, and threw up picket lines. Reuther's members are crossing the lines to work.

Reuther insists it's all right with him if the building trades help finish the hurry-up job in the auto plant, but says they can't take over the work of his own union members.

"They want us to lay off our own people and that doesn't make sense," Reuther told reporters.

Navy Plane With 7 Aboard Is Missing

By AUL PETT

ABROAD U. S. A. ARNEB, in Ross Sea, Antarctica (AP) — The command of Operation Deepfreeze hoped today for clear weather to throw all available aircraft into a search for a navy plane missing with seven men aboard.

Two ground search parties crossed the ice yesterday between the Little America V base and a trail post 400 miles eastward from which the missing craft took off. But they found no trace of the missing men.

Dedication Week Planned by Methodists

Rev. Virgil D. Keeley, pastor of the First Methodist Church, announced today that the local Methodist Church was completing plans to participate in the world-wide "Week of Dedication" as observed by Methodist Churches throughout the world. A series of events and programs have been arranged for the week which extends from February 12th to February 19th.

Rev. Keeley said that the "Week of Dedication" was formulated in 1948, and has been observed each year since that time. During this week, Rev. Keeley said, all Methodist are urged to search their hearts and rededicate their lives to their actions, and their gifts, so that the principles of Methodism and Americanism can be spread throughout the world.

The week will begin officially at 10:55 a. m. Sunday, February 12th, with a sermon at the local church by the Bishop Paul E. Martin. At the evening service on this date, Rev. Keeley will speak and show filmstrips on the "Week of Dedication" and its work concerning the Crusade Scholars.

On Wednesday, February 15th, at 7 p. m. the Young People will be in charge of the service with the Senior, Intermediate and Wesley Club members of the local church participating. On Friday, February 17th, at 7 p. m., the Spiritual Life Group of the Women's Society of Christian Service will be in charge of the service.

On Sunday, February 19th at the morning worship service, Dr. E. C. Rule, District Superintendent of this district will bring the sermon. The evening services on this date will be in charge of the Century Bible Class. There will be lay-speakers and music by the Men's Chorus of the Century Bible Class.

Each evening service during the week will close with the Lighted Cross Service. Several services during the week will be broadcast over KXAR.

Rev. Keeley urges all Methodist and friends of Methodists in this area to attend and actively participate in all of these services.

Attorney Admits Trying to Give Money to Case in Gas Bill Controversy

Mayor Ole Olsen is pictured handing his contribution to the Hempstead County Heart drive along with a proclamation calling for residents of the county to support the campaign. Chancellor to Rule in School Case

WALNUT RIDGE (AP) — Chancellor Thomas F. Butt was expected to rule today on whether there should be a postponement of a hearing on a civil suit filed by segregationists against Hoxie School District officials.

Since a November 26 hearing, segregationists have filed an amendment to the suit, and attorneys for the school board have asked Chancellor Butt either to dismiss the amendment or grant them additional time to prepare a defense.

The amendment requests a "full accounting" of $72,000 handled by school officials during 1951-54.

The original suit, filed by pro-segregationist attorney Amis G. Hixson, of Little Rock, the School Board with irregular purchasing and employment practices. The suit charges that one member of the board illegally purchased equipment for the school district from a firm with which he is associated, and that wives of three board members had been hired by the board in violation of Arkansas law.

The amendment, filed in January, says that the School Board and former superintendent K. E. Vance be held "jointly and severally" responsible for any funds which cannot be traced by "receipts and documents."

Says Ike Will Veto Higher Price Supports

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today Congress will invite a presidential veto if it votes to reinstate higher, rigid farm price supports along with a new billion-dollar soil bank plan.

"Although I've not talked this over with President Eisenhower, I'm pretty certain he would not agree to take this backward step," said Aiken, senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee.

But Chairman Ellender (D-La.) said the bill also contains most of the things Eisenhower has asked the farmers, and added, "I don't think the President would veto it."

The committee voted 8-7 Saturday night to return to mandatory 90 per cent of parity support for major crops. Present supports, approved in 1954, range from 75 to 80 per cent of parity. Parity is a price determined by farm law as fair to farmers on the basis of the cost of things they buy.

At the same time the group accepted the new soil bank program asked by Eisenhower and Secretary Aiken.

Fort Smith Gets New Box Plant

FORT SMITH, AP — A new box plant, to employ about 33 workers, is scheduled for immediate construction here.

John G. Kain and C. O. Cockrell, president and vice president of the Arkansas Container Corp., said the firm plans to have the facility, which will manufacture corrugated shipping boxes, in operation by July or soon thereafter.

No estimate of cost was made, but Kain said a corrugator machine which will be installed is priced at $500,000. He said the plant will be the first of its type in Arkansas and will be constructed in a way that will allow future expansion.

Kain and Cockrell operate box plants at Memphis and Chattanooga and a food products plant at San Antonio, Tex.

Senate Seeking Facts; Battle Due on Issue

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON, (UP) — A braska lawyer identified himself today as the mystery man who tried to give $2,500 to the campaign fund of Sen. Francis Case (R-S. D.).

A few hours later, Senate leaders acted to set up a blue ribbon committee to determine if the rejected donation was "an improper attempt to influence a vote on the pending natural gas bill."

The Senate leadership first ran through a resolution, authorizing the investigation, under an emergency procedure, requiring unanimous consent. But this was blocked by an objection from Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.).

Leaders then announced they would bring the resolution to a vote in the regular manner after the Senate acts on the bill, which was scheduled to reach a vote this afternoon.

The attorney John M. Neff of Lexington, Neb., admitted he was interested in passing the gas bill, and that he offered the contribution after asserting that Case favored the bill.

Neff denied that he was trying to influence Case's vote. He said that the money was given to the Democratic Leader, Francis Case, with no strings attached.

John A. Neff, a prominent attorney, was asked to appear before the committee to discuss the episode.

He urged approval of the resolution before the Senate's scheduled showdown vote later today on the gas bill itself. The bill would exempt independent natural gas producers from direct federal price regulation. The Senate has been debating it for three weeks.

Case sat silently in the Senate chamber as Johnson presented his resolution. Case had told the Senate chamber as Johnson presented his resolution. Case had told the Senate Friday that he ordered the $2,500 contribution returned, and that he now plans to vote against the bill.

Opponents of the measure, led by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) disclosed they will try to delay the scheduled showdown vote by sending the measure back to the commerce committee until the proposed investigation "is" completed.

But Johnson, a leading backer of the measure, made an impact of those conclusions might be ahead and pass the gas bill today.

"The Senate would indict itself and return its own conviction in the public eye if it depended on hoist conclusions are hastily abandoned I fear that expression of those conclusions might be taken as an admission of improper influence," Johnson said.

"I, for one, feel no compulsion to establish my integrity by voting against this bill, because I do so, would, in my eyes, establish an absence of integrity."

He invited any senator to stand up and say if he knew of any similar contributions to senators favoring the bill. No one rose.

Johnson said the Senate has an obligation to investigate the matter. At present, he said, there is an absence of "any tangible evidence from which proper conclusions

Opportunity Is Not Scarce But the Ability to Recognize It Seems to Be the Trouble

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Opportunity isn't scarce — but the ability to recognize it is.

When a million-dollar idea pops up, few men have the art to see its true value — and put it to work.

This is the story of two Milwaukee lawyers who did. They turned a personal annoyance into a multi-million-dollar business.

In 1949 Elmer Winter and his partner, Aaron Scheinfeld, found themselves badly in need of a legal typist to prepare papers in a pressing court case. They needed her quickly.

"At first we tried calling the old girls who had worked for us before," recalled Elmer, "but they were all busy having babies. We were in a real jam. It took a lot of scurrying about until at the last moment we finally found a girl who could do the job for us."

"Afterward, my partner and I got to talking about how there must be many business firms which ran into emergencies when they temporarily needed extra trained help and couldn't find it. Yet there must be many people who wanted temporary work of this sort. Why couldn't there be an organization to solve the situation?"

The two lawyers, after a preliminary investigation disclosed the market was even greater than they visualized, created Manpower, Inc.

The firm, which now has 71 offices here and in five foreign countries, has built up a labor pool of scores of thousands of skilled and unskilled workers. On short notice it assembles and provides for other companies trained staffs to do practically any specialized task in the industrial world except construction work.

"We aren't an employment agency," explained Winter. "We rent help. Our people work for us, and are paid by us."

The clients of Manpower, Inc., including 79 of the nation's 100 largest corporations, range from huge insurance firms, department stores, and Wall Street banks down to a small manufacturer who merely wants a few freight cars unloaded.

"We also have furnished disaster crews to help out in hurricane and flood relief work," said Winter. But the odd-jobs firm has also met a number of odd emergency requests.

Once a convention of funeral directors sent in a hurry-up call for a girl model to demonstrate a device designed to lift a corpse from a marble slab into its coffin.

Another time a racehorse died at a Cincinnati track and Manpower, Inc. was called to speed a crew there to dig it a grave in the infield, while sorrowing bettors who had wagered on the horse hung around morning.

But most of the firm's assignments are to fill the multifarious chores of business offices, and most of its employees are ex-career girls.

"We don't look for teen-agers," said Winter. "We look for mature people trained to do a mature job."

"There are thousands of middle-aged housewives who have reared their children and who would like to work part time, either because they are bored or because they frankly need the money. There are also thousands of firms that need temporary employees during peak seasons. We simply bring them together."

"We act on a fireman's basis. But one of the things we have stayed away from is baby sitting. Too many headaches in it. All our employees are bonded, of course, but I don't want to feel responsible for 2,000 little children every night. I've got three of my own to worry about."

But Winter, who is only 43, and his partner have just launched a new firm called Salespower, Inc., which will set up sales staffs to market the products of small companies.

"We feel it has an even greater potentiality than Manpower, Inc.," said Winter.

Maybe million-dollar ideas, like vices, are habit-forming. The trouble with most of us is to get the first one.

More Freezing Rain Likely in Southwest

By United Press
More snow and freezing rain Monday threatened the Southwest, already throttled by a record five-day blizzard that left up to 30 inches of snow.

At least 30 persons were dead in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico from the storm, which finally eased the trail northward.

Weathermen, however, warned that another low pressure front moving into West Texas would draw warm gulf air over the cold air mass—possibly producing the same kind of weather that buried the area under the worst snowfall in years.

Residents of dozens of Southwest towns used what might be a brief lull to dig out from the record snow fall.

Streets were being cleared slowly by crews working 24 hours in the hard hit cities of Plainview, Amarillo and Lubbock, Tex.

At Tucumcari, N. M., heroic bus driver John Heyron, 38, rested after walking 10 miles through deep snowdrifts to summon help to his stranded vehicle and 15 passengers.

Arkansas' Death Toll Reaches 14

By The Associated Press

Two shootings and four fires, plus the usual number of traffic accidents, brought Arkansas' violent death toll to 14 for the week that ended Sunday midnight.

Five of the deaths were due to traffic accidents, one was a suicide, one person died from injuries in a fall and one person suffocated.

A 40-year-old Pine Bluff Negro was shot to death Saturday night in a tavern at Pine Bluff. He was Henry Wright. Police booked another Negro, Ed Gardner, 42, on an open charge. Witnesses said the shooting followed an argument between Wright and Gardner.

A 6-year-old boy was killed Saturday when struck by a truck driven by his half-brother at Elowah, 10 miles northeast of Lehi. The traffic victim was William Achby, son of Mrs. Leonard Hiser. Officers said the child was crossing the street when the accident occurred.

Billy Bruce Melton, 27, of West Helena was shot to death Friday night in a West Helena night club after he slugged a policeman and then advanced again on the officer. The sheriff's and prosecutor's offices termed it "justifiable homicide."

Capit. J. Herschel Yancy, night patrolman, said he fired two shots into the floor before firing at Melton as the young man lunged at him. Melton, who was in the logging business with his father, once boxed as a heavyweight in Mississippi Golden Gloves competition before he lost a leg in a traffic accident. He was equipped with an artificial limb.

DOROTHY DIX

Doctor's Job Is to Help You; Trust Him

Dear Miss Dix: I'd like you to advise me on a problem that is very embarrassing. Perhaps I should go to my doctor, but I'm sure he'd laugh at me. I doubt if my story would be printed in your column, but if you'll answer me personally, I'll write you again. I'm 24 and perhaps should be able to solve my own problems, but sometimes they're difficult.

Answer: If you have a problem so delicate that you would prefer glad to answer you personally, not to have it published, I shall be sure to close a self-addressed stamped envelope with your inquiry.

However, I think you're wrong not to discuss it with your doctor. Many medical and legal questions are outside my province and should be handled by a professional. Doctors, lawyers and clergymen will listen patiently to your troubles, advise you competently and respect your confidence. They will not laugh at you, nor will they make light of a question that is of utmost importance to you—even though it may seem trivial to them. To insure the most from a professional interview, you must talk freely, listen patiently and then follow instructions.

Lacks Self-Confidence

Dear Miss Dix: I was taught in early childhood that "children should be seen but not heard." It resulted in my becoming timid and shy. Although I am now grown and married, I still have a deep seated feeling of awkwardness, a lack of self-confidence and difficulty in expressing myself effectively to others. I find it a hindrance in both business and social life. Would you suggest a night school where they teach Oral Expression? D. R.

Answer: This old-time aphorism, which also my childhood, was as bad in its own way as its successor, "let children be completely uninhibited." Thank goodness we've arrived at a nice, safe, middle course in which youngsters are disciplined without being dominated. Fortunately, you live in a city of many wonderful schools. Night courses in your local colleges will include what you are seeking; the Y. W. C. A. has classes to help you, and there are always the good old reliable Dale Carnegie courses. Investigation. Investigate these without delay, and I'm sure you'll be helped.

Dear Miss Dix: In regard to your answer recently concerning parties for people in their early twenties, we would like to disagree with you. We are not alcoholics but do enjoy an occasional drink. Soft drinks and games are for the grade and high-school crowd. For people in our age group this concept of partying is a bit idealistic and naive.

JOHN AND ARLENE

BEWARE!

COUGHS FROM COMMON COLDS THAT HANG ON

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion. It goes into the bronchial system to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time-tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. Get a large bottle of Creomulsion at your drug store. For children get milder, faster Creomulsion for Children in the pink and blue package. Adv.

holic beverages, a party without them may be idealistic but it certainly is not naive.

There are many thousands of people in these United States who do not approve of alcoholic drinks or are forbidden them by legal or religious tenets. Should these people be deprived of the pleasure of social gatherings, or should a party be any less pleasurable because liquor is not included? As a matter of fact, I have known many a party to fall flat on its face because alcohol was included.

As for games, there are adult as well as juvenile versions. I'm sure some of the more sophisticated games would be welcomed even in college-circles. Do try to adopt a more tolerant attitude toward your fellow men; if some of them prefer nonalcoholic parties and games to stronger concoctions and literary talk, they're having fun.

ARKANSAS GIRL WINS $1,000 LION OIL SCHOLARSHIP

15 Other Awards in Arkansas, Louisiana

EL DORADO, ARK., FEB. 7—Julia Ann O'Daniel, 17-year-old senior at Waldo High School, Waldo, Ark., is the winner of a $1,000 college scholarship in the second Lion Oil Student Essay Contest of the 1955-56 school year. Essays were on the subject, "Why I'm Glad To Be An American."

Julia Ann O'Daniel

Julia Ann's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. O'Daniel of Waldo. Mr. O'Daniel saw a Lion Oil scholarship advertisement, and urged his daughter to enter the contest. Julia Ann was also encouraged by her teacher-sponsor, Mrs. Alvin Fuller, to submit an entry. Julia Ann had never entered a Lion scholarship contest before, but her first entry earned her a top award. She wrote her winning essay during a period of three days, revising it four times. The winner is a straight "A" student, president of the student council and co-editor of the school newspaper. She wants to major in Speech and Drama at College. Julia Ann's favorite subjects in school are English and Speech. Her hobbies are sewing and music. Mrs. Fuller, as Julia Ann's teacher-sponsor, received a $200 cash award. She teaches English, social sciences and history. This year she is using the Lion Oil Essay Contests as class projects, and has sponsored approximately 30 entries in the Lion Oil Contests this year. She plans to spend her $200 on her son's education when he leaves the Air Force.

School, Franklin, Tenn., is the winner of a $1,000 Lion Oil College Scholarship in Zone "B." She is undecided about where she will attend college, but hopes to major in journalism and art.

Mississippi Boy Wins James (Jimmy) Edward McDonald, 15-year-old sophomore at East Neshoba High School, Philadelphia, Miss., won a $1,000 Lion Oil College Scholarship in Zone "C." Jimmy plans to enter an engineering college, and wants to be in the construction business after graduation.

Dudley, Ashdown High School; Tommy L. Garrett, Jr., El Dorado High School; Bob Hamilton, Texas Avenue Junior High School (Texarkana, Tex.); Martha Harrison, T. A. Futrell High School (Marianna); Carla Jeanne Henrickson, Nemo Vista School (Center Ridge); Barbara Jackson, Marvell High School; Nancy Ann Stevens, Murfreesboro High School; Ilene Young, DeQueen High School. (All are in the State of Arkansas, except as noted.)

Judges of the contest were: Chairman, Dr. Dolph Camp, Pres. of Southern State College; Dr. Frank Irwin, Dr. Walter Breyman, and Dr. Harrison Hale, all from Southern State College, Magnolia, Arkansas.

3rd Student Contest Ending The third Lion Oil Student Essay Contest of the 1955-56 season has already started and closes March 16. The essay subject is "What I Want From Education." Awards include three $1,000 scholarships; 45 Merit Awards of $25 each; and $100 cash prize to scholarship winners' schools. Teacher-sponsors of winners also share in prizes. For details, write the Lion Oil Scholarship Fund, El Dorado, Arkansas.

IT'S NEW! IT'S EXCITING HOPE STAR'S MYSTERY FARM CONTEST MYSTERY FARM NO. 11

Here's How the Contest Works — — —

Each week, Hope Star will picture an aerial view of a farm located in the Hope Trade Area. Eleventh in a series of "Mystery Farm" photos is pictured above.

No one on the Star staff knows whose farm this is, but if the Owner will stop in and identify his farm, he will receive a beautiful mounted aerial view picture.

The "Mystery Farm" will be identified in Hope Star the following week and the winners names will be published. Only one winner each month to an immediate family.

The contest is open to everyone except employees of Hope Star and their families, the County Agent, Home Demonstration Agent, Real Estate Agent, their office staffs and their families.

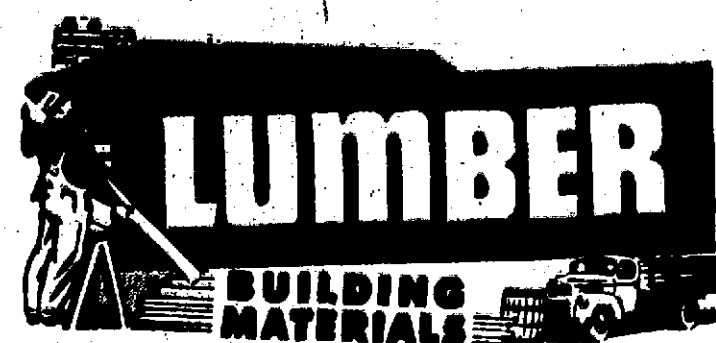

Watch for these photos each week, for a picture of your farm may be included in this series. We hope you will enjoy this contest and take an active part in it.

The "Mystery Farm" series is sponsored by the merchants shown on this page.

Here's What You Win — — —

The first person coming to Hope Star office and correctly identify the "Mystery Farm" will receive two passes to the Saenger Theatre. You must register your answer at the Star office.

Hope Star will award prizes to the first three (3) persons correctly identifying the "Mystery Farm." Merchandise Certificate Award of: $5.00, $3.00, $2.00 will be given the first, second and third place winners each week. Certificates must be used with any Advertiser appearing on this page.

BLUE LABEL

ECONA

Contains PHENOTHIAZINE

Blue Label Econa contains one gram of Phenothiazine per pound and since the normal consumption of Econa is 2-3 pounds per day, each animal will get the recommended 2-3 grams of Phenothiazine required for "Low Level" control.

Blue label ECONA provides the easy and low cost way to feed Phenothiazine.

Because ECONA is self rationing, animals will get the right amount — not too little, not too much.
